

Cuba

Variety Boeing 707 to Havana.

As soon as the plane landed, I saw Brazilian President Goulart's special representative . . . went to Cuba (to offer his good offices to me & Castro).

The Soviet Ambassador came to see me on the first day (Tuesday, Oct 30).
(a tense young man — <sup>dark hair</sup> he wants to do is to run — the Soviet General commands the missile installation — who was waiting outside — young & dressed in heavy tweeds — known as <sup>— Riddle must —</sup> Spanish a little — some years in Latin America — )

Castro would be delighted to have UN inspection if the UN would inspect the American bases right here & preparing aggression.

Three plane hours in Havana's Embassy district (low?)

There were sandbagged anti-aircraft emplacements along the drive.
a man in fatigued dress was running in the cars — one American destroyer just beyond three-mile territorial waters of Cuba.

Militiamen <sup>rifle slung on their shoulders</sup> or militiamen on the streets

A group of militiamen unloaded fourteen boxes & crates from a (Page 283) truck. I was not aware that such an amount of equipment
P.W.P. had been loaded & put aboard.

Piled up inside the garage (to be released Ricardo <sup>explains</sup> on the plane when I left)

The general services don't feel it would be quite a saving to load all the equipment now aboard the plane (with no extra <sup>expansions</sup> for elegant residence assigned to

me. There & leave to drink diagon.
